

About the Presenter:

Tricia is a college professor of communication at University of Wisconsin-Rock County. She is co-editor of Gendered Identities: Critical Readings of Gender in Children's and Young Adult Literature, published by Routledge. She grew up in a small town in Wisconsin. Always a lover of a good story, she spent her days reading and dreaming of being a writer, though she never wrote any fiction until much later. After many years off exploring, she returned to her much-too-frigid home state where she lives with her husband and two girls, her parents, and what seems like small zoo. Most of her time goes to shuttling her kids to dance and trying to get the glitter off the kitchen floor as well as planning trips to much warmer destinations. Her debut novel, THE HAUNTED HOUSE PROJECT, published in October by Sky Pony Press.

Workshops and Presentations:

I would be delighted to work with you to put together any length presentation from a keynote speech to a day-long workshop. As an award-winning professor of communication, I always strive for a high-energy, interactive presentation in which the sharing of stories helps to guide the content.

With experience teaching audiences of all ages—from pre-k to adult—I know how to adapt both my presentation style and the content to the specifics of your school or organization. Areas of expertise: Interpersonal Communication, Public Speaking, Intercultural Communication, Popular Culture, Gender, Themes in Middle-Grade and Young Adult Literature.

Working with you, I'm happy to adapt presentation topics to your goals. Daily, half-day, and hourly rates are available. Contact me for a specific quote based on your needs. Payment for any appearance is expected at the beginning of the event. Travel fees outside are additional.

Sample Workshops:

- Author Reading and Q&A
- Gender and Culture in children's fiction
- Brainstorming process
- Revision Workshop
- Using senses in writing
- Making public speaking your happiest place on earth

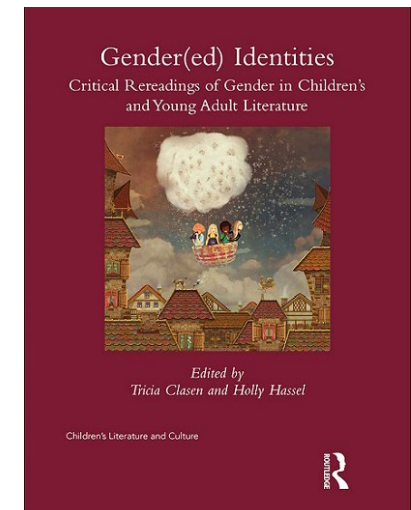

“Awesome, engaging, and interactive.

This will be the highlight of our year.”

Amanda Werner, teacher, Madison Elementary, Janesville, WI
